

JOIN FORCES TO COMBAT EPIDEMIC OF INFLUENZA

Virginia Tuberculosis Association Postpones Campaign to Aid State Health Board.

DEPARTMENTS TO CO-OPERATE
City and Commonwealth Officials as Well as Teachers Prepare Crusade. Simple Rules Are Laid Down to Halt Spread of Disease.

Decision was reached yesterday by the Virginia Tuberculosis Association to join the State Board of Health in a determined campaign to stop the spread of the influenza epidemic which has been experienced last year. The executive committee of the Tuberculosis Association met with Dr. Hinton G. Williams, State Health Commissioner, yesterday morning and decided to postpone their "Modern Health Crusade" in order to aid the State Health Board in combating influenza and disease which are spread by secretions of mouth and nose.

The full machinery of the State Tuberculosis Association will be utilized in this campaign, which beginning in the schools and in the homes, will be on with a momentum that will sweep through the State. The State Department of Public Instruction, the Council of City Health Officers in Virginia and other agencies will cooperate in getting the movement under way and active plans will be launched at once.

Two Rules Emphasized.
Emphasis is laid on two simple rules which are fundamental and every teacher in the State will be urged not only to teach these rules to the children for whom she is responsible, but to see that they are rigidly enforced.

The first of these rules is: "When ever you cough or sneeze into your hand or put a handkerchief over your mouth and nose."
The second is: "Don't put your mouth fingers or pencils or anything else that does not belong there, nor use a common drinking cup."

The enforcement of these rules will, in the opinion of State Health Commissioner Williams, materially reduce many cases of influenza and other secretions of mouth and nose. In fact, it is a matter of record in this office that since influenza started in the two rules were rigidly enforced in schools, the number of cases of influenza and other secretions and other cases of sickness due to mouth and nose secretions has been reduced by more than one-half.

SAYS RUSSIAN MASSES WILL SURRENDER CAUSE

Atlanta Man Returns from Archangel and Asserts Bolsheviks Will Control.

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, Sept. 13.—"There will be no fighting in North Russia when the final evacuation is completed. There may be sporadic outbreaks, but the masses will peacefully surrender to the Bolsheviks. This is the general opinion among all allied forces now in Archangel."

M. S. Baker, Y. M. C. A. secretary, just returned from Archangel after eleven months with the allied forces, made this statement. Mr. Baker lives in Atlanta and has been in Europe two years doing Y. M. C. A. work. He will remain in London a few months before returning home.

"There is not much suffering among the population of Archangel in spite of the fact that the allied forces have been in the city for some time. The food shortage has been met. Each member of a family has a ration of bread daily and we rationed out tea and fish."

"Surrender is the best thing the Russians can do. If they accept the Bolshevik regime, they take the lesser of two evils."

Americans are doing now except for thirty Y. M. C. A. workers. The allies are expected to be out before November. The Y. M. C. A. men also are coming out of the Murmansk coast district. We in Archangel did not know of evacuation was coming until two months ago. It surprised us all."

"PEANUT WORLD" MAKES INITIAL BOW TO PUBLIC

New Trade and Industrial Journal Comes From Suffolk, Va. Office.

A new trade and industrial journal has come forth from a Virginia office for the consideration and patronage of one of the leading industries of the South. It is the Peanut World, which is to be published monthly in Suffolk, the acknowledged peanut center of the world.

Volume No. 1 is a handsome magazine of 164 pages, filled with interesting matter concerning the cultivation, harvesting and handling of the goobers and containing the trade generally, and is of abiding interest to any and all persons in any way connected with the industry.

The Peanut World is published by the Herald Printing Association, of Suffolk. Among the contributors to the first number are W. C. McLouney, E. L. Steers, Philip H. Lee, John A. Monahan and Alfred B. Williams.

The subscription price is $1.00 per annum. The World will doubtless have a large circulation among the peanut growers of Virginia, North Carolina and other Southern States, and all of the peanut factories of the country will have to have it on their tables.

Has Birthday Party.

Master Ernest Bullington, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Bullington, of 10 Brookland Boulevard, celebrated his seventh birthday Friday afternoon by entertaining quite a number of his little friends. Among those participating were: Cecelia Yates, Rowland Selph, Mildred Macbeth, Minnie Beville, Lois Jones, Phyllis Jones, Jane Collins, Woodrow Johns, Nellie Wise, Margaret Frost, Billie Frost, Carlyle Frost, Francis Frost, Virginia Toler, Rosebush Crowder, Andrew Miller, Clifford Crowder, Welford Gregory, Stanley Gregory, Charlotte Knight, Edna Knight, Charles Knight, Doris Herndon, James Schaar, Virginia May Yates and Ernest Bullington.

VIRGINIA DROPS BEHIND IN PEANUT PRODUCTION

This State Stands Sixth in Rank With Crop of 4,785,000 Bushels.

Virginia has again dropped in the ranks of peanut production, according to figures compiled in July by the Virginia Peanut Growers' Exchange. Surpassed only by North Carolina as a peanut producing State in 1919, Virginia now holds only sixth place among the States in the production of this product.

The production of peanuts has not fallen off in the State, it is said, but the growth of production in other States has driven Virginia from the front ranks. In 1909, 4,284,210 bushels of peanuts were grown in the State while the estimate for this year is 4,785,000 bushels.

North Carolina, which ten years ago led all the other States in the production of peanuts now holds fourth place with Alabama, Texas and Georgia before her in order. In 1909 figures show that 17,798,829 bushels of peanuts were grown in six States, while this year the same States are estimated as producing 22,789,000 bushels.

British Land at Seaford.
LONDON, Sept. 13.—British forces have been landed at Seaford, across the Bosphorus from Constantinople. It is officially explained, however, that this was an ordinary troop movement and that only 1,200 men were placed on shore.
